My personal website where you can find out about my background, educational and professional experiences.

Hi, welcome to my personal website! I'm Baran Manti, a senior computer science student at Michigan State University. Here you will find a glimpse into my multifaceted world, from my journey through education and professional experiences to my hobbies. As a Systems Engineer, I've sharpened my skills in solving complex problems and optimizing processes.
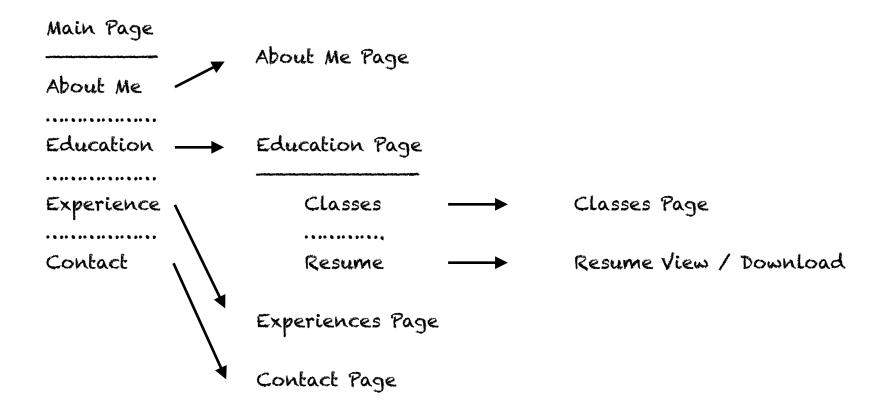

Beyond the tech realm, I'm an avid hiking and mountain biking enthusiast, which adds a unique dimension to my life. Join me as I bridge the gap between the analytical and the artistic, showcasing how these passions converge to create a well-rounded, dynamic individual.
